Lack of snow causes delay in sculpturing

Due to a lack of snow and because many students are busy preparing for finals, the AMS Winter Carnival's snow sculpturing contest has been postponed until the beginning of next semester, according to Jim Mitchell, Winter Carnival chairman.

Events which do occur this week include broomball hockey, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday on the tennis courts south of the Fieldhouse; ice skating races Thursday at 4 p.m. at Vivian Park in Provo Canyon and, figure skating competition Friday at 4 p.m. at the tennis courts.

OTHER EVENTS include a broomball hockey game between BYU and University of Utah executive councils and ice skating competition for king and queen contestants. Both events and final playoffs for the broomball hockey competition will be Saturday, said Bobbie Jessop, chairman of the ice skating committee.

In Tuesday's hockey games, Breakers won over Tau Sigs, Alpine Club best EL 2 and Chinooks took winners honors from Val Hyrie, Miss Jessop said.

SCHEDULED to play today are Sportsmen vs. Tigardites at 4 p.m., and Raiders vs. Athenians at 5 p.m., she said.

Candidates for the king and queen must have their applications in the Winter Carnival Box in the AMS office, basement, Student Service Center, by Friday at 5 p.m., said Max Buckwalter, Royalties Committee chairman.

ALL CANDIDATES must have a cumulative grade point average of at least 2.5 and be carrying a minimum of 10 credit hours at BYU, he said.

Candidates have a choice of competing either in the ice skating meet Saturday or in the skiing meet Feb. 7, Buckwalter said.

ACCORDING TO THE committee in charge of this year's event, the business section of the meeting will be held in the South auditorium beginning at 7 p.m. The banquet, which will be held in the Smith Ballroom will follow the report meeting.

One of the main items on the agenda will be the election of three new board members and two new members of the Credit Union committee.

Stage set, cast ready for production of opera

New satin costumes have been designed and sewn for the BYU production of Gilbert and Sullivan's opera "The Mikado," set for Wednesday through Saturday at 8:15 p.m. in the Smith Auditorium, said Carol Miceli, costume supervisor for the musical.

ABOUT EIGHT GIRLS are working on the Japanese stylized costumes for "The Mikado." According to Miss Miceli, dress for Gaiety and Sushan shows tends to be extreme in character, that is, the costumes reflect how one may think the Japanese dress instead of how they actually dress.

Staging is under the direction of Charles Henson, stage designer for the Dramatic Arts Dept.

DIRECTOR of the production is Dr. Don L. Earl, professor of music and director of Opera Workshop. Technical director is Robert Strubbers. The Symphony Orchestra will play the score.

Lead roles will be played by Jack B. Morris Jr., Lurline LeVar, Roy King Lee Scanlon, Boyd Hancock, Mary Dennis Marilyn Flah, Judy Simmonds, and Noel Twitcheil.

Tickets are on sale at the Joseph Smith Building ticket office. Phone reservations will be accepted. Students, faculty and staff will receive tickets free on presentation of activity cards.

World news ...

Dutch claim proof of invasion

INDONESIA, WEST NEW GUINEA (UPI)—The commander of Holland's New Guinea forces, Rear Adm. Leendert E. H. Veeser, told newsmen that one of the captured Indonesians from Monday's naval clash admitted the Indonesians units "had from the first intended to commit an act of open aggression."

Both countries have charged the other with violations of territorial water and both nations say the other fired first in the clash in which the Dutch sank two Indonesian torpedo boats.

Rites set for father of Y news director

Funeral services for Edwin F. Butterworth, 31, 1121 S. 11th East, Salt Lake City, father of Edwin J. Butterworth, director of the Y News Bureau, will be conducted today at noon at 2123 S. State, Salt Lake City.

Mr. Butterworth, a Salt Lake businessman, died Saturday at 9:30 p.m. of carcinoma at his home.

HE WAS BORN May 15, 1936 in Salt Lake City, a son of Edmund and Alice Fielding Butterworth. He married Florence Boud in 1964. She died in 1965.

Mr. Butterworth married Naomi Williams in 1964. Burial will be in the Salt Lake City Cemetery.

Sally Hale was the winning contestant in the Belle of the Y sports contest, Tuesday.

Miss Hale, a sophomore from Glendale, Calif., also took third place in the crafts contest Monday.

PERFORMING ON the balance beam, a long board supported about four feet above the floor, she showed extraordinary balance and co-ordination.

"The hardest part about performing on the balance beam comes when you look down and see how far away the floor really is," she commented.

Another previous contest winner is Suzanne Criddle, a Junior from Long Beach, Calif. Third-place winner in the cake contest Monday, Miss Criddle placed second in Tuesday's sports contest.

MISS CRIDDLE participated on the trampoline doing flips, jumps and somersaults.

Third-place winner in the sports contest was Dagny Johnson, a Junior from Oakland, Calif.

"There is only one problem in performing on the balance beam—keeping your balance," informed Miss Johnson.

CONTESTANTS were judged on balance, pose and style, according to Gene Barlow and Shureen Hendrix, chairmen of the sports contest.

Events still to come in Belle of the Y Week include the dance contest, popularity contest, and culture and talent contests. The assembly and banquet on Friday will conclude the week.

USU students pursue better sportsmanship

It would seem that our neighbor to the north, Utah State University, is somewhat concerned about its standing in the Skyline Conference.

A recent editorial appearing in the "Student Life," USU's student newspaper, admonished the students to show a desire to enter the conference by conducting themselves in a sportsmanlike manner at games.

TO QUOTE the editorial, "There isn't an intelligent USU supporter who wants to see the Aggies forced into independence through not being accepted as fit opponents for other teams in the region. Granted, Utah State has been told that the major reasons for not being accepted are a combination of several things including academic standards, and the assertion that the school doesn't have the money or local support to compete on a level with the other schools now in the conference."

"Both of these reasons are absurd," says the editorial. "If sentiment in Utah and the neighboring states was unanimously in favor of USU being included, we would be."

"ONE OF THE HARDEST strikes against us is the way rival ball teams are treated when they venture to Logan," it said.

We at BYU having had an unpleasant experience with USU last year after a basketball game, are happy to see that some students at USU are making an effort to create a sportsmanlike atmosphere for visiting teams.

We do not claim that all students at BYU are good sports when we lose a game, but we do enjoy a good game, won or lost, and we appreciate playing a school which has the team and the student body to make it a good game.

We again congratulate certain USU students for their efforts to secure their place in the Skyline Conference, and we hope that in the future both schools will be able to meet for athletic events in an atmosphere which is conducive to good sportsmanship.

Students may tour and work

Information on two special programs for students wishing to work abroad is now being offered by the U. S. National Student Aisen.

These two programs have been created to accommodate the many students desiring to work abroad. The programs begin with a period of two to four weeks spent working in either England or Israel, followed by a longer period of travel in surrounding countries.

Campus and Comment

by the Readers

These columns are open to all student and faculty comment and criticism. Letters will be published at the discretion of the editor. Contributions should be held to a maximum of 300 words, legibly written or preferably typewritten and double spaced. Contributions must be in good taste and free from libelous material.

Criticizes critique

It appears to me Larry Daines, in his critique of the History Club panel, makes the same error he accuses both Dr. Larson and Mr. Perkins of making—that of overstating a point.

After summarizing the position of Dr. Andrews and his opponents, he then launches into the nebulous blue on a personal tangent.

IN THE FIRST place, by classifying through inference both Dr. Larson and Mr. Perkins as "liberal" is arbitrary and based on one or two statements at the most.

I am sure both men would dislike being placed in either the liberal or the conservative camp on the basis of any one or two statements.

For some reason, Mr. Daines seems to assume the proposition that man's "physical and material security" may be improved by the "institutionalizing of state programs oriented to this end." This viewpoint seems to be in direct contrast to the viewpoint held by most conservatives of today.

IF MR. DAINES wishes to attack the liberal on the economic level, I wish he would do so, rather than soaring to the lofty heights of morality.

He states: "Although he (the liberal) may pay lip-service tribute to the greater need of man, he is almost entirely motivated by the lesser (needs)."

To thus categorize a man's loyalty and service to God solely by whether he is liberal or conservative is far too much out of line to be allowed to pass.

I AM SURE that Mr. Daines could fulfill his physical needs by working five hours a week, but when he graduates you may rest assured that he will accept a job working 40 or more hours per week.

Why? Because, contrary to Mr. Daines' point of view, man is always making a continual effort to better himself both physically and spiritually.

I find that one of the few God-like qualities of man is his continual quest for betterment. The conservative has enough ammunition to shoot at the liberal on the economic level, so why should he belittle himself by casting reflections upon a man's loyalty to God because of his material beliefs.

WHY THAT MEANS I'll be able to make a file on all my friends and enemies. And Maybe I can get the publish the names and initials of those who get grades or can't get a recommend or don't pass.

Then I could really do damage I may even succeed in disclosing the school whole as well as the student body.

AND IT WILL ALL BE imate because it's to be published under the title "Standard." How delicious!

I hope nobody gets the idea of publishing the achievements which are under such a title. That's worthy or of good reputation all my plans. It even do the school some good.

P.S. Try to get them to elude the misdoings of the club and the administration, will you? I get bang out of the exposed tons of other people's ex-

McGill and Utes ...

'Big one' for Cougars Saturday

If knowing what has to be done will help BYU's basketball team, the Cougars might be ready for Utah's Redskins this weekend when they stride into the Fieldhouse for the "big one."

THE YS TASKS are quite apparent, but a knowledge of what has to be done is only a step toward a solution. It may take more than the Y has in basketball talent and know-how to edge the likes of Utah.

For one thing, the Watsonsmen have to devise ways and means of stopping the unstoppable Billy McGill, something no other team has been able to accomplish this season.

REGARDLESS of the stature of opponents or the strategy imposed, the Hill has been able to score in the light 30's or low 40's against the best they have had to offer.

Another phase of game strategy lies closer to home. The Cats fumbled away a chance to defeat Colorado State last weekend, mainly because they couldn't master any scoring power on the game line.

A FAIRLY consistent group in games past, the Y's guards took a total of 23 shots at the basket Saturday night, but only five dropped through the hoop. With a good showing anywhere along the line, the game could have been won before the teams were forced into an overtime period.

It could be the guard line experienced one of those nights when everyone was a bit on the chilly side. In any event, the Cougars will have to have some kind of outside attack Saturday night if they have any hopes of overcoming the favored home team.

THE ASSIGNMENT of staying with McGill will probably be given to Bruce Burton, 6-4 center who was moved to the post from a forward position three games ago.

Burton, a junior, will have to give several inches in height to McGill, not to mention advantages in experience and shooting ability. But Burton remains the top candidate for the job, and he could at least help in this almost hopeless chore.

AS A CENTER, Burton has given the Cougars a needed lift in recent games. He tallied 23 points against Wyoming and picked off 13 rebounds. Against CSU he was tagged with three fouls early in the game, but still scored 13 points and brought down 10 rebounds before fouling out.

Forwards Jim Kelson and Bob Skousen form a good team on the forward line. Skousen had a total of 34 points over the weekend, and Kelson had 37, including the 25 against the Cowboys. Both did equally well in the rebounding department.

Hoop ratings ...

Ohio State still leads

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ohio State rode on majestically as the nation's No. 1 major college basketball team in the United Press International coaches ratings while a general scramble broke out for the other nine places among the top 12.

The hardest hit was West Virginia which dropped out of the top 10 to No. 12. Mississippi State, which suffered its first loss of the season to Vanderbilt after 10 straight victories, was 13th. Bowling Green was 14th, Utah was 15th, Stanford was 16th, Purdue was 17th, St. John's was 18th and Illinois and Santa Clara tied for 19th to round out the second 10.

The United Press International major college basketball ratings (won-lost records in parentheses):

1. Ohio State (34) (12-0)
2. Cincinnati (11-2)
3. Kansas State

Kittens seek number six against Utah

"Plenty of stiff competition from the Cougar greenings," Jerry Pinn.

Rival coach Pete Witbeck is counting on his charges to be just that this coming Saturday when the Kittens will tuneup the floor of Elmer Nielsen Field house for the feature tilt between Utah and BYU. Game time is 6 p.m.

FRESH FROM an impressive 97-88 victory over Weber College, the Kittens have compiled a 4-0 start behind an unusually well-balanced attack.

Best balanced of the starters is Bob Quinney who has missed getting 20 points or better in only one contest, good for 21.2 ppg average.

Center Lou Andrus follows with 18.2. Then comes Mike Gardner with a 16.2 mark, recently fattened by his 30-point performance against Weber Monday night. Paul Miller is at 18.8 and Joel Gardner has 12.2, keeping the starting five in double figures.

BYU nabs top mag publicity

by Don Livingston Universe Sports Writer

Not content with gaining a three-page spread in "Life" magazine, BYU assured itself of further national publicity by playing host to "Sports Illustrated's" famous photographer, Hy Peskin, over the weekend.

PESKIN, whose imaginative photos have earned him accolades as America's foremost shutterbug in sporting circles, recorded halftime activities during the weekend's twin ball for E's renowned "The Spectacle of Sport," a four-page color section which weekly depicts some phase of sports.

KUDOS ARE the order of the week for the halftime committee and all who helped to make halftime truly a spectacle to see. BYU's synchronized bicycle riders, Cougarettes, Songleaders, Flautwinds, and International Folk Dancers and to the drill team of North Cache High School.

The games themselves featured the sparkling speed of two of last year's promising sophomores, Bruce Burton and Jim Kelson, who both had 20-point games in the two-game set.

Friday night, Burton had his field day at the expense of Wyoming's Cowboys, as he garnished 20 counters on a variety of shots and played the backboard with plenty of authority. The husky 6-4 Californian chalked up 13 rebounds, compared to five for his taller opposing center, 6-8 Al Eastland.

Notice P.E. Majors! A special program will be featured at the Majors' meeting Thursday at 10 a.m. with a group from Orem High School putting on a physical demonstration.

BYU Club members and interested individuals are urged to attend in the Fieldhouse.
